Let XM do their thing, if the com channels can do it why not XM. If they are denied this right you are using a double standard which is not right. If you stop XM you would have to stop commercial stations also. Both are radio stations the main difference is you can get the weather and news in ca. while you are in az. you do not have to already be in a situation before you hear about it. You can find out about situations before you get there, and you can adjust your travel plans to keep from getting in a bad situation while you are far enough out to do something about it. True XM charges for their service where free radio does not but they have sponsors to pay them and their range is limited where XM is not. I use to drive a big truck and the info I received from XM kept me from making a bad situation worse by being caught in it. You have a choice of having XM or not, but I will say this there are parts of az and nm where you can not even get a AM station except at night and you run into the bounce and out, the info you get from WOWO does you no good if you are going to ca. I think XM should be commended for their programs they are very helpful if you are on the road. Again I think XM should be given an award for providing this service. Thank you Mikel
